THE HONORABLE CHIEF JUSTICE AND JUSTICES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF NEW MEXICO
DISTINGUISHED MEMBERS OF THE NEW MEXICO LEGISLATURE

Following please find the 1993 Annual Report of New Mexico's judicial branch. The Report, mandated by NMSA 1978, Section 34-9-3, describes the major activities of the state funded court system during the 81st fiscal year. That year was Mr. Robert Lovato's final year as Director of the Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC) and the Report is submitted in recognition of, and in gratitude for, his accomplishments.

The Annual Report provides a basic overview of the court system. In its early stages, it describes the structure of the New Mexico court system and the relationship of each court to the others. The next section provides specific information about, and accomplishments of, each level of the state funded court system and the AOC. Finally, caseload statistics are provided for each court.

While the Report describes what appears to be a healthy and productive court system, it masks a very real crisis facing the judiciary – a crisis of resources. In many judicial agencies, innovations and growth are hindered by inadequate funding. In some agencies, however, funding is so lacking as to prevent even the most basic services from properly being provided. Equipment cannot be replaced; staff cannot be hired; adequate facilities cannot be made available.

The judiciary, as a co-equal branch of government, must take strongs steps in the coming fiscal years to seek adequate funding. To attain that funding, it must also, by performance, assure others in state government that it can and will respond timely and adequately to their concerns.

Those then will be goals of the judiciary during the 82nd and 83rd fiscal years: to attain adequate but economical funding and to be responsive to appropriate expectations of the legislative and executive departments of government.

Please be assured that the judiciary will do everything possible to attain those goals. We look forward to working with the legislative and executive departments to assure that New Mexico has the strong three-part state government our citizens deserve and our constitution envisions.

Respectfully,

Deborah Kanter
Director

New Mexico Court Structure

New Mexico has a unified court system composed of five statewide courts: the Magistrate Court/ Metropolitan Court is a court of limited jurisdiction; the District Court is a trial court of general jurisdiction; the Court of Appeals and Supreme Court are courts of appeal.

The judicial system in New Mexico is state funded with the exception of the Probate Courts and Municipal Courts, which are locally-funded courts of limited jurisdiction. The chief justice of the Supreme Court is the chief administrative authority of the state court system. The chief justice appoints a state court administrator and an administrative staff to handle budgetary and administrative functions. Each court (excluding magistrate courts) has responsibility over its own operations and has a chief judge who appoints an administrator to handle internal court management.

Administrative Office of the Courts Structure

The Administrative Office of the Courts Act provides for the appointment of a director, an individual with professional ability and experience in public, business and/or judicial administration and an understanding of court procedures. The Director of the Administrative Office of the Courts is Deborah Kanter. Her powers, duties, and responsibilities are outlined in NMSA 1978, § 34-9-3.

The director is assisted by personnel who work in the Administrative Office of the Courts in the following areas: personnel management, public information, planning, research, finance, data processing, judicial education, and general counsel. The Administrative Office serves as staff to the Chief Judges' Council and standing ad hoc committees.

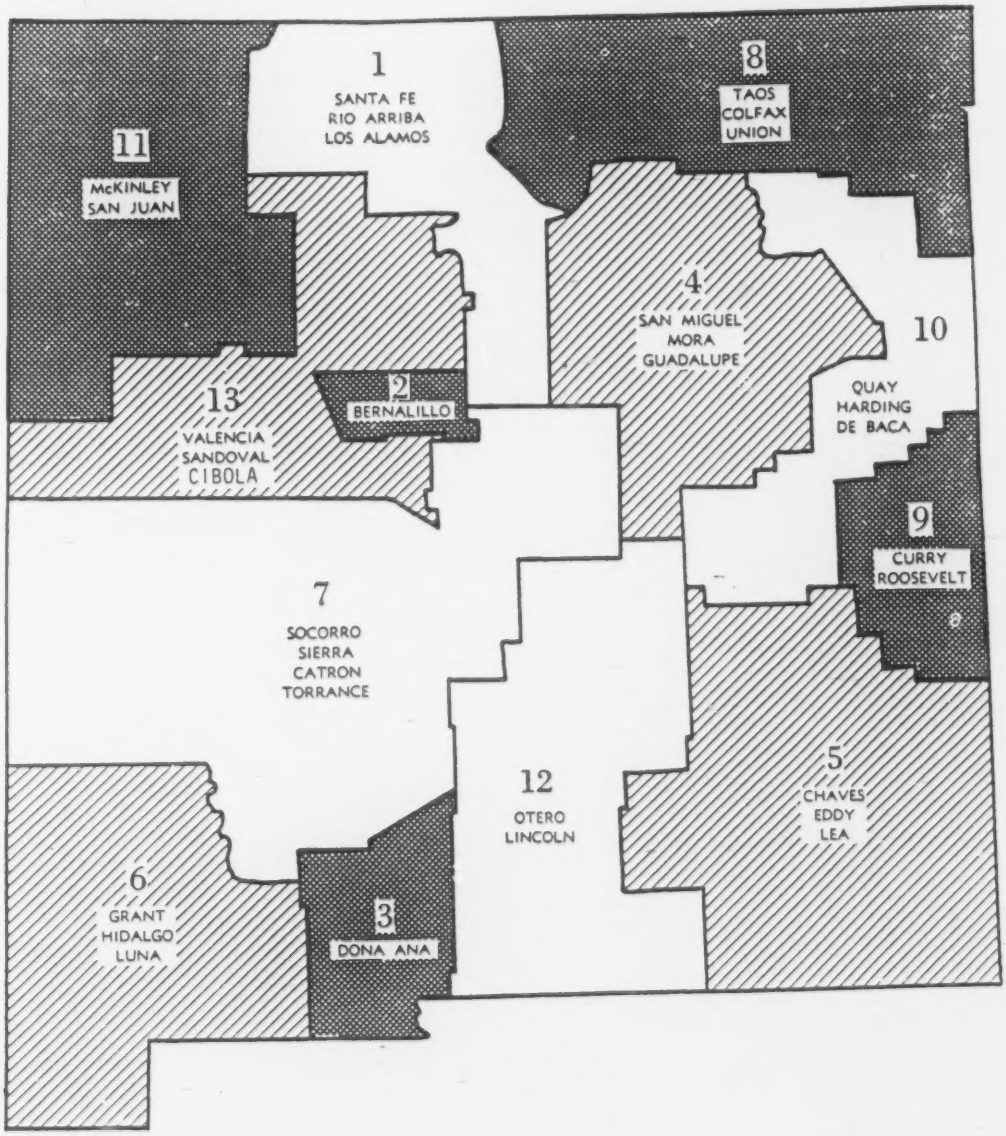
New Mexico Judicial Districts

The New Mexico Statutes Annotated 1978, § 34-6-1, provides that the state shall be divided into thirteen judicial districts. One or more judges shall be elected to each district as provided by law.



Appellate

SUPREME COURT

The Supreme Court is the state's highest court and the court of last resort for state appellate actions. In addition, the Supreme Court is charged with significant administrative functions, in that it has superintending control over all inferior state courts, as well as the regulation of attorneys and judges.

The Supreme Court consists of five justices who serve eight-year terms. The justices of the court elect a chief justice by majority vote to serve a two-year term. A majority of the justices of the Supreme Court shall be necessary to constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and a majority of the justices must concur in any judgment of the court.

SUPREME COURT EVENTS - 1992-1993

- In June 1993 Saul Cohen, Santa Fe attorney, and Edith Cherry, Albuquerque architect, were appointed to serve as Supreme Court Building commissioners in addition to Chief Justice Richard E. Ransom. The Commission has prioritized necesssary building improvements into a four-year building plan, which was submitted as part of the Governor's Capital Building Improvement Plan. Registration on the National Register of Historic Buildings is a long-term goal of the Commission.
- The Supreme Court received funding from the legislature in the amount of $4.5 million to begin to automate case management of the trial courts statewide. A Judicial Information Systems Council, comprised of representatives of the various levels of courts as well as other agencies affected by automation of the courts, was established. A Judicial Information Division, led by a project manager, was created to implement and maintain the statewide system. Other accomplishments of the Council include implementation of a statewide, coordinated approach to inventory, funding and administration of judicial branch computer systems.
- The Supreme Court established a Commission on Finance in the Courts to focus on resource allocation, needs studies and outlay management for a statewide, unified judicial system. Members include justices and judges from all levels of the judiciary. The primary focus of the Commission is to support and assist the Director of the Administrative Office of the Courts in performing her statutory duties related to finance. Other initiatives of the Commission include development of standards and criteria for creating new judgeships and other judicial personnel positions, and seeking consensus on priorities for other court funding requests.

COURT OF APPEALS

The Court of Appeals consists of ten judges. The judges of the court elect a chief judge by majority vote to serve a two-year term. The Court of Appeals is the intermediate appellate court between the district courts and certain administrative agencies below it and the New Mexico Supreme Court above it. The appellate jurisdiction of the Court of Appeals is coextensive with the state. As a practical matter, the Court of Appeals reviews appeals in all cases, either administrative or judicial, except judicial claims involving contracts, criminal cases involving sentences of death or life imprisonment, administrative appeals from the Public Service Commission, removals from the State Corporation Commission, and cases involving writs of habeas corpus. By law, the judges act in panels of three on all appellate decisions. Agreement of two judges is required on all opinions. The Court of Appeals operates under procedural rules adopted by the Supreme Court.

COURT OF APPEALS EVENTS - 1992-1993

- During 1993 the Court of Appeals and Supreme Court instituted a new program designed to reduce the delay being experienced in the decision of cases by the Court of Appeals due to a large backlog. Attorneys who agreed to opt into the "rocket-docket" program were guaranteed a prompt oral argument. Following argument, a decision was made from the bench and a short written decision was filed within one day. The oral arguments were heard by panels which included two Court of Appeals judges and one Supreme Court justice. Five cases were decided under this program, and both courts agreed it was a useful program that should continue as an option in the future.
- At the beginning of this reporting year, the Court of Appeals had a backlog of 260 cases. For the first time in six years, this year the Court closed more cases than it received new filings. The increase in dispositions is attributable in part to a mandatory settlement conference program and to the three additional judges who came on to the court in July and August of 1991. Additionally, an experimental program was implemented involving the court's prehearing staff working very closely with the panel of judges assigned to hear particular cases. The court ended the fiscal year with a backlog of 192 cases. As of November 1993, the backlog has been further reduced to 166 cases.

District

DISTRICT COURT

The district court is the trial court of general jurisdiction. It has appellate jurisdiction over all cases in inferior courts. It has exclusive jurisdiction in all matters involving juveniles, domestic relations, and all cases not excepted in the Constitution or by law, such as where concurrent with probate courts in probate matters. The state's thirty-three counties are divided into thirteen judicial districts, eleven of which are multi-county. The district court consists of sixty-one full-time judges.

There is a chief judge in every judicial district. All district court judges must be licensed to practice law in the state, be at least thirty years of age, and a resident and a member of the bar for three years. District judges are elected/retained to serve six-year terms.

DISTRICT COURT EVENTS - 1992 - 1993

- The 4th, 8th, 9th and 10th Districts are in the process of establishing a computerized tracking system with regard to child support cases. These districts share one Child Support Hearing Officer. In the 9th District alone, over $2,116,000 in child support payments has been receipted and disbursed.
- The 8th District is placing on-line a local computerized office network which will augment and supplement the JALAN automated court software. This court is able to electronically scan all case-file documents and information contained in them, in a Windows environment and using Folioviews 3.0. These powerful tools allow anyone with legal access to the network, from anywhere, to read all case files, any and all documents, transcripts, exhibits, docket sheets, and any other information generated during the life of a case within the courthouse. The 8th District is also producing real-time transcripts of court proceedings, and is implementing a full CD-ROM network access to the library.
- The 11th District is actively pursuing three initiatives in the local community. The first is continued coordination with the Domestic Violence Task Force. The second is a facility for the incarceration of DUI convictees. The third is a Neighborhood Mediation Center which is anticipated to divert many cases from magistrate and municipal court to a structured forum where citizens resolve their own grievances with each other under the direction of a trained Mediator.
- After serving 26 years in the district courts, Maggie Triviz, the court administrator for the 3rd District, retired in November 1993.

Magistrate

MAGISTRATE COURT

The New Mexico Magistrate Courts are courts of limited jurisdiction. Since the magistrate courts derive their authority by legislative enactment, the legislature can increase or reduce magistrate court jurisdiction, as well as create or abolish individual courts.

Under state law, a magistrate's territorial jurisdiction is coextensive with the district, i.e. county in which a magistrate serves. However, a magistrate may exercise jurisdiction over certain vehicle and game department violations occurring in adjacent districts.

A magistrate's criminal jurisdiction extends to all misdemeanors. The magistrate judges may levy fines of not more than $1,000 and may impose jail sentences of a definite term of less than one year. A magistrate judge may conduct preliminary hearings in felony cases, where authorized by law. Civil jurisdiction extends to debts or sums claimed up to $5,000 exclusive of interest and court costs.

There are fifty-eight magistrate judges in thirty-two counties. Magistrates judges must be high school graduates or the equivalent thereof and are elected to serve four-year terms.

In compliance with statutory mandate, annual training is provided for all magistrates by the Rozier E. Sanchez Judicial Education Center. The Magistrate Benchbook and Administrative Procedures Manuals provide judges and clerks with daily procedural guidance.

The Administrative Office of the Courts gathers and analyzes statistics. Areas of concern within the magistrate court system are reviewed and improvements recommended on a continuing basis.

MAGISTRATE COURT EVENTS - 1992 - 1993

- Court automation continues to be a high priority. This year the McKinley County Magistrate Court at Gallup was fully installed.
- Several magistrates retired this year, including John McLemore of Roswell, Paris "Pete" Derizotis of Gallup, Jean Williams of Moriarty, and James Wheeler of Ruidoso.

*Due to lack of automation and heavy workloads in the magistrate courts, we are unable to determine an accurate number of cases.

Metro

METROPOLITAN COURT

Effective July 1, 1980, the Bernalillo County Metropolitan Court was established in Albuquerque. Created by the 1979 legislature, the metropolitan court consolidated the Bernalillo County Magistrate Court, Small Claims Court, and the Albuquerque Municipal Court. Albuquerque's metropolitan court was established in accordance with statutory requirements of being located within the boundaries of a class A county with a population of more than 200,000 persons.

The metropolitan court constitutes a state magistrate court. In addition to the jurisdiction provided by law for magistrate courts, it has jurisdiction coextensive with the county over all offenses and complaints under ordinances of the county and of any municipality located within Bernalillo County. Civil jurisdictions extends to debts and sums claimed not exceeding $5,000 exclusive of interest and costs.

The Metropolitan Court is comprised of fifteen judges and fourteen administrative divisions. These divisions include Data Processing, Pretrial Services, Probation, Educational/Community Services, Personnel, Accounting, Support Services, Criminal, Violations/Case Setting, Civil, Courtroom Clerks, a Court Interpreter, a Law Clerk and Administration.

METROPOLITAN COURT EVENTS - 1992 - 1993

- The court continues to aggressively pursue improvements in the areas of: fire/workplace safety and security; compliance with Americans with Disabilities Act, EEOC regulations, civil rights/sexual harassment laws; team management; collections of outstanding fees, fines and costs; building repair/furniture replacement; full automation of all divisions and timely dispositions of cases filed in the court.
- The automation of the Community Services section is in the final stages of implementation, and new programs are being developed for the Probation division. In addition, the In-court Docketing Project has worked to everyone's benefit because case dispositions are docketed as they occur. This provides up-to-date information for cashiers, Probation, Educational/Community Services, and the public.

* Adjustments (excluding parking violation cases) were made to the filed and closed cases.

- As a result of legislation passed this year, the court has implemented policies and procedures to enhance collections of outstanding receivables. There has been an average increase of $30,000 per month over previous collections since July 1, 1993.
- Throughout the year the court has continued to refine its automated court calendar system to maximize use of judicial resources and assure random assignment of judges. Divisionalization into the Criminal and Civil dockets provides for twelve judges hearing Criminal, Traffic and Arraignment dockets, while the three remaining judges hear solely civil cases.

Management Projects

JUDICIAL EDUCATION

The newly renamed Rozier E. Sanchez Judicial Education Center of New Mexico both secured a permanent financial base and continued to provide educational services for the judicial branch. The Center effected a transition to state support from dependence on funding by the federally-supported State Justice Institute. This was accomplished by enactment of state legislation adding a one dollar fee to all fines on persons who are convicted of misdemeanors and traffic violations. Another major achievement this year was the preparation and adoption of a long-term curriculum plan for the education and training of the entire judiciary.

CASELOAD STATISTICS

As we continue to improve the quality and quantity of management-related information about the performance of the state's courts, this year the magistrate courts were asked to conduct a physical inventory of all pending cases. This effort was initiated to reconcile past reporting formats with the recently adopted caseload prototype suggested by the National Center for State Courts. In future years, we will have a more accurate picture of the full caseload of a court rather than just the number of new case filings.

MAGISTRATE COURT ASSISTANCE

The Administrative Services Division and Internal Audit Unit of the AOC gave special assistance to several courts this year, including four that involved long-term assistance. The nature of the services offered were: implementation of tickler systems, analysis of fiscal management, development of procedures for corrective action, oversight of administrative operations, case processing, coordination of management reports, training in office procedures, statistical reporting and physical inventory of cases, and general reorganization to achieve greater efficiency and effectiveness.

PERFORMANCE EVALUATION

During the first half of 1993, the judicial branch classification and compensation plan administered by the Administrative Office of the Courts underwent a planned five-year review. This study encompassed a review of the validity of the existing job descriptions and classifications for each position in the judicial branch. Additionally, each job description was reviewed for compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act. This study was then followed up with a personnel conclave moderated by two consultants in the field of personnel administration. Judicial personnel gained a further understanding of and appreciation for the Hay classification system.

With assistance from the Judicial Education Center, the AOC Human Resources Division and one of the consultants from the conclave then worked together to provide, at various locations throughout the state, overall training in general supervisory techniques and conducting performance evaluations. These training groups were composed of a cross section of judges, court administrators, first line supervisors, and line staff. As a result, a determination was made that the performance evaluation tool implemented in 1988 was in need of major revision. The new performance evaluation tool will be developed by a group of judges and employeees, based on feedback received during these sessions.
